Hight Debate in the Senate on the Tariff Bill.

Passage of the Appropriation Bills in the House.

THE CASE OF MR. GILBERT—PROBABLE ACTION OF IMPLICATED MEMBERS.

THE PROVISIONS OF THE NEW MEXICAN TREATY.

A One-Sided Affair.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Feb. 26.

The House did not proceed with GILBERT's case, being determined to get the appropriation bills secured—all of which passed. To-morrow he will be heard by counsel, and if PERVIANCE's resolution for trial fails, then he, MATTESON, WELCH and EDWARDS may resign, to remove all obstructions. This is the advice of their friends, and is favorably entertained as the best mode of avoiding what seems the fixed purpose of the majority in the chamber.

A fracas between WRIGHT of Tennessee, and SHERMAN of Ohio, nearly occurred in the House. They had sharp words a few days ago. This morning, WRIGHT came to the seat of HARRIS of Maryland, next to whom SHERMAN was sitting, to inquire about some person in Baltimore, and while HARRIS was examining a written memorandum of the person's name, WRIGHT looked at SHERMAN in what the latter supposed an insulting manner—whereupon SHERMAN threw water in his face.

Both parties then attempted to make an attack on the other, using offensive language, but HARRIS being between them, resolutely interposed, preventing collision. Others also promptly interfered. It is said that WRIGHT and SHERMAN were armed and endeavored to draw weapons. The end is not yet, unless precautions are taken.

The so-called treaty with Mexico is a miserable contrivance, got up by FORNEY without authority of any kind and intended to signalize himself and benefit others who do not appear. The President and Cabinet, with one or two exceptions, disapprove the whole proceeding, and will withhold it from the Senate.

All the statements about acquisition of territory are wholly unfounded. The bargain is all on the side of Mexico, and proposes that the United States shall lend her fifteen millions of dollars on the faith of her revenues. Of these she gets eight, England four, and three are retained to satisfy American claimants. We get what is styled commercial reciprocity—a Board to settle claims, and the new postal connection which has been offered gratis during the past year. Diplomatists laugh at this attempt to borrow as the broadest farce of the season, and our public men, with few exceptions, regard it as consummate trifling.

[FROM OUR REGULAR TELEGRAPHIC REPORTER.]

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Feb. 26.

Hon. J. GLANCY JONES, who declined a Cabinet appointment in order to relieve Mr. BUCHANAN from embarrassment concerning Pennsylvania, now says he will accept for the purpose of spiting Col. FORNEY, who headed the opposition to him.

The House took summary action to-day on all the remaining general appropriation bills upon its calendar, in order to proceed uninterruptedly on the reports of the Corruption Committee, which come up to-morrow. Nothing whatever was done with them to-day.

Mr. SUMNER was in his seat in the Senate about half an hour to-day, and was warmly welcomed by his friends.

XXXIIIth Congress---Second Session.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Thursday, Feb. 26.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. PRATT presented the credentials of ANTHONY KENNEDY, elected Senator from Maryland for six years from the 4th of March next.

Mr. DOUGLAS introduced a bill for the erection of a Post-Office building at Cairo, Illinois.

Mr. STUART moved that the Committee on Commerce be discharged from the consideration of the memorial of the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad Company, and the memorials of the Legislature of Iowa, asking grants of lands.

Mr. SEWARD, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill authorizing the President to procure a steam revenue cutter to be stationed on the Pacific Coast.

MAILS TO SOUTH AMERICA.

Mr. BIGLER, from the Committee on the Post-Office, reported a bill to provide for the carrying of the mails from New-York to Para, South America, touching at the intermediate ports, and a bill for carrying the mails from Panama to Valparaiso on the West Coast of South America, in connection with the mail routes already established or hereafter to be established to New-Orleans, New-York and California.

Mr. FOOT moved, and the Committee on Public Lands was discharged from the consideration of the petitions of the citizens of Vermont, praying for a modification of the Bounty Land Grant, and the memorial of the citizens of Kansas for a Homestead Bill.

THE INDIANA SENATORIAL CASE.

Mr. TRUMBULL said he had been requested to present a memorial from 27 Senators and 36 Members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Indiana, stating that it was important to their rights as well as to the rights of that State that there should be a speedy discussion in the case of Mr. FITCH, who claims to have been elected to a seat in the Senate. He said the request of the petitioners seemed so reasonable that he trusted it would receive the favorable consideration of the Committee on the Judiciary, and that they would make an early report on the subject.

Mr. TOOMBS remarked that he was prepared to make a report now, and proceeded to read it.

It sets forth that the Committee have found that some of the important matters of fact alleged by the contestants, relative to the manner in which the election of Mr. FITCH was held, are denied by him, and hence it became necessary to take the testimony of persons residing in Indiana for the better ascertainment of the disputed facts.

Mr. TOOMBS offered a resolution that, touching the case of contested election of Mr. FITCH, who has been returned and admitted to a seat from Indiana, the sitting member and all present protesting against his election be permitted to take testimony on the allegations of the contestants and of said member touching all matters therein contained before any Judge of the District Court of the United States, or any Judge of the Supreme or Circuit Court of the State of Indiana, by first giving ten days' notice of the time and place of such proceedings in some public gazette printed in the city of Indianapolis.

Mr. TOOMBS remarked that one of the most important questions involved in the consideration of the legality of the election was, whether the persons who received or thought to get the majority were legally entitled to their seats or not. This was the controverted point, and the Committee were asked to report the facts to the Senate, that the Senate might adjudicate the question.

Mr. GWIN objected to the present consideration of the subject, as likely to give rise to debate and interfere with the pending business.

The resolution lies over under the rule, and the report was ordered to be printed.

COMMODORE AT BOSTON.

Mr. WILSON introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 for a Court-House at Boston.

DELEGRAPH FROM THE ATLANTIC TO THE PACIFIC.

Mr. BIGLER, from the Committee on the Post-Office, reported a bill to expedite the construction of a line of magnetic telegraph from the Atlantic to San Francisco.

Mr. STUART thought it a little singular that Southern Senators should have made so much opposition, yesterday, to the Submarine Telegraph Bill, and now, when a telegraph line is proposed on a Southern route, none of them open their mouths against it.

Messrs. TOOMBS, BUTLER, CRAY, BRIGHT and IVERSON severally repelled with severe indignation the idea that they were governed by sectional considerations.

Mr. STUART said that a reference to the records of this Congress would show that he had stated no more than the truth. He referred to the violent opposition of the Southern Senators to the Northern Internal Improvement bills, but when those in the Southern States came forward the opposition subsided, and in some cases he had been required to vote for bills of this character by Southern Senators, who were restrained by constitutional objections from voting for them.

The bill was passed, by yeas 36, nays 12.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Postmaster General, under the direction and in the discretion of the President of the United States, is hereby authorized to contract with any person or persons, association or associations, for the use by Government of the line or lines of Magnetic Telegraph from the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, to San Francisco, in the State of California, for a period of ten years, and an annual rate of compensation not exceeding $30,000, and to grant permission to the party or parties so contracting to use, during the said term, any unoccupied public lands on the route of said line or lines which may be necessary for the same, provided, that such line or lines of telegraph shall be open to the use of all citizens of the United States; during the term of the said contract at rates which shall be established with the approval of the Postmaster General, and which may be raised by him from time to time, as he shall think proper, and provided also, that no payment shall be made for the use of said telegraph line or lines for any portions of time when the same are not in operation, and that Government shall be entitled to priority over individuals in the transmission of its messages.

THE TARIFF BILL.

The Senate took up the Tariff bill.

Mr. HUNTER explained the object of the bill, and showed the pecuniary necessity which exists for reducing the revenue of the country, though he thought the day was not far distant when duty of fifteen per cent, would give as much money as would be required for the uses of the Government. He urged the importance of acting on the subject this session, for a postponement till next year might find it involved in party politics, when the decision could not be made as satisfactorily to the whole country as now.

Mr. BRODERICK was in favor of the House bill as a choice of evils. He defended the iron interest particularly from sundry assaults.

An amendment to the bill proposed by the Committee on Finance, placing linseed in and taking sine off the free list, was agreed to.

The next amendment of the Committee was an additional section, providing that all the articles in schedules A and B, in the act of 1846, shall pay an ad valorem duty of thirty per centum; and that the articles in schedules C, D, E, F, G and H shall pay a duty of one fifth less than the rates now imposed, with the exceptions otherwise provided for in this act.

Mr. BRIGHT moved to strike out all after the enacting clause, and substitute a proposition to the effect that by such a reduction of duties as would, instead of reducing the revenue, would raise it by a largely increasing importation.

Mr. WILSON's motion was disagreed to.

Mr. COLLAMER expressed his views at great length, and said that he could see no necessity for making such a radical change as that now proposed, in this hasty manner. The passage of this bill just at the close of the session, he believed would operate as a direct encouragement to importation, and as a consequence would increase the revenue. He gave a history of and defended the wool interest.

EVENING SESSION.

When the Senate reassembled,

Mr. PUGH said that he thought the bill from the House was bad enough, but Mr. HUNTER's substitute was worse. The whole scheme shows that the woolen manufacturers desire protection or no revision of the tariff. One particular class of interests are selected to be benefitted at the expense and ruin of others, contrary to the tariff of 1846 and the settled professions of JACKSON till the present time.

Mr. WILSON said that Mr. PUGH had indulged in denunciations, sarcasms, and sneers toward men who deserve no reproaches in this or the other branch of Congress. The woolen manufacturers wish not to impair the prosperity of the Agricultural interest, nor do they ask unjust advantages. If the House bill pass it will be of immense indirect benefit to the manufacturers and the commerce of the country.

Mr. SEWARD was in favor of that plan which would least shock the business of the country as at present adjusted. He was against all horizontal reductions. The bill of the House avoided all the objections which he thought essential, and although some of its details are injudicious, yet he regarded it as a compromise as fair and just, and worthy of the Senate.

Mr. BUTLER regretted exceedingly that it became necessary for Congress at this late period to consider questions at all. It would, however, be conceded that it was their duty to endeavor, as far as possible, to find a standard of equity between conflicting interests. The House bill could be essentially improved but with a few slight amendments the Senate had better take it than run the hazard of none at all. When the iron interests are on the eve of an entire triumph, and of being placed on a solid basis, undisturbed by foreign competition, he was not willing to disturb them by accepting Mr. HUNTER's substitute.

Mr. STUART said the actual reduction of the revenue under the bill as it came from the House was only six millions, but the Committee thought this too little, and hence proposed amendments reducing it two more millions, bringing the revenue down to fifty millions annually.

Mr. GWIN favored Mr. HUNTER's substitute. If the House should not concur in it a Committee of Conference would probably adjust the subject in such a way as to be acceptable to the country.

Mr. HOUSTON advocated the House bill, because if the object was to reduce the revenue, that object could be best accomplished by the enlargement of the free list.

Mr. HUNTER defended his substitute, and remarked that Mr. PUGH in saying it was in disregard of the policy of the Democratic party, aimed a blow at nearly all the Democrats in Congress who have been upholding the principle of the substitute for the last two years. His proposition reduced one-fourth the existing rates of taxation for the advantage of commerce. If anything was to be done on this subject it must be done to-night, for to-morrow the appropriation bills must be considered.

Mr. TOOMBS said the question was a plain one, if not disturbed by the squabbling and disputes of those who are seeking the bounty of the Government. He would get the biggest reduction he could consistent with the equality of burdens, no matter what particular interest it might crush, his desires being to benefit the great mass of his countrymen.

Mr. BUTLER would be perfectly willing to have no Custom House at all, but that object was unattainable. If we had no tariff on cotton, it would rise to twenty-five cents a pound to-morrow. The taxation is collected through delusive and fraudulent legislation. The day of free trade is rapidly approaching.

Mr. TOOMBS would enlarge the free list to a certain extent in combination with a general reduction of duties. He was unwilling to go beyond the point of collecting more than the wants of Government require, and denounced as surplus revenue as the greatest evil which could exist.

The amendment of the Committee on Finance proposing a reduction in certain schedules was then adopted, by yeas, 36; nays, 12.

In the clause of the bill relative to the duty on Wool unmanufactured, "foreign" was substituted for "home" valuation.

The prospects are that the Senate will be in session all night.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Feb. 26.

A PERSONAL REVIEW.

During the proceedings of the House Mr. Watkins, of Tennessee, approached the seat of Mr. Harris, of Maryland, for the purpose, it is said, of speaking to that gentleman, and while there Mr. Sherman was of opinion that Mr. Wright acted in a menacing manner toward him, in consequence of the sharp personal controversy between them, which recently occurred in the House. Mr. Sherman apprehending from a number of motions he saw Mr. Wright make, that the latter was and attempted to strike him. Mr. Sherman then put his hand into his side pocket to pull out, if it happened, a weapon; but some friends immediately interfered. Messrs. WAKEMAN and HAVEN assisted Mr. WRIGHT to his seat amid laughter and loudly expressed opinions, which however, were repressed. Order of affairs was restored.

APPROPRIATION BILLS PASSED.

On motion of Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union was discharged from the consideration of the five general appropriation bills in order that they might be put on their passage.

The House, under the operation of the previous question, passed the Miscellaneous, the Army, the Navy, the Fortification and the Ocean Mail Steamer Appropriation Bills.

THE INDIAN APPROPRIATION BILL.

The House acted on the Senate's fifty amendments to the Indian Appropriation bill, and tabled, by five majority, the bill to invest $5,000,000, held in trust for the Indians, in safe State stocks.

The Speaker announced that the next business would be the consideration of the report in Mr. GILBERT's case, whereupon, on motion of Mr. OTIS, the House adjourned.

Engagement from Kansas.

CROSS OUTRAGE UPON GOV. GRAHY.—DIFFICULTY WITH JUDGE SHERROD—MR. SHEPHERD AND JUDGE SHERROD SHOT.

ST. LOUIS, Wednesday, Feb. 25.

The Jefferson City correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat learns from the passengers from Kansas to-night that a serious difficulty had arisen between Gov. GRAHY and Judge SHERROD, growing out of the refusal of the former to appoint the latter Sheriff as desired by the Legislature. SHERROD had avowed his intention to kill the Governor, and meeting him shortly afterward, in the street, spit in his face. GRAHY did not resent this, but his friends got up an indignation meeting on Thursday, the 19th, which Sheriff JONES, Judge SHERROD, and others, attempted to break up, when a conflict ensued, in which SHERROD shot Mr. SHEPHERD, one of Gov. GRAHY's friends, four times, killing him, and wounding two others. Mr. JONES, the Governor's Secretary, then shot SHERROD, the ball passing through his head, and killing him instantly. Very great excitement existed at Lecompton, and a general fight was anticipated that night. Gov. GRAHY's residence was guarded by United States troops.

ST. LOUIS, Thursday, Feb. 26.

S. W. SHERROD or SHERRARD is the man who was appointed by the Court to fill the vacancy occasioned by Sheriff JONES' resignation, and to whom Governor GRAHY refused to grant a commission, on the ground of his habitual drunkenness. The Westport correspondent of the Republican says that SHERROD did not spit in the Governor's face, but called him a liar, coward and scoundrel. The remainder of the report is not yet corroborated, nor is it contradicted. We look for letters from Lecompton to-night.

The report was ordered to be printed for the future action of the Board.

An informal ballot in the House to-day to indicate the preferences for the location of the State House, resulted as follows: Montpelier, 116; Burlington, 67; Rutland, 24; scattering, 10. This is regarded as settling the question in favor of rebuilding in Montpelier.

Their object it was supposed was to release some British subjects, who had involved the protection of the British officers, but were hurried in the river by the Nicaraguan troops.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, Feb. 16, 1857.

MRS. THOMAS CASEY, No. 116 Washington-street, New-York:

MADAM—Your letter of the 12th inst. was received yesterday. I regret that it is not in the power of the Department to facilitate the return of your son, Joseph HALL, from Nicaragua, even if he be with the unfortunate engaged in prosecuting a war against the people in WALKER's army. Marine Disasters.

[illegible] WITH ALL HIS CREW.

The New-York Board of Underwriters, about the middle of January last, chartered the schooner Sarah S. Bird to cruise off this coast for the relief of distressed vessels. She was supplied with a large quantity of provisions and water, with extra lines and hawsers. Some twenty extra men were put on board; and her whole crew numbered 23. She sailed on the 16th of January, and was two days afterwards spoken southeast of the Highlands. Since that time no tidings whatever have been received from her, and she has been about given up as lost. These forebodings are, at length, confirmed by the pilot-boat Splash, Captain DANIEL LAWS, which arrived Tuesday from a cruise, and reports that a few days since he passed a schooner's mast, with the rigging attached, 15 miles S. S. E. of Barnegat, the mast having the letters "S. S. B." cut upon its heel. The former chief mate of the schooner says he cut these letters himself in that part of the spar. The vessel was probably wrecked in the gale of the 19th of January, and went to pieces, all hands having perished with her.

SOUTH STEAMERS—SAILING TO-DAY.

On and after Monday, March 2, these steamers will leave New-York at 5 o'clock P. M. instead of 4 o'clock. The Plymouth Rock leaves here on Sunday next at 4 P. M., to be ready to take her place from Stonington, Monday night; the Commodore will leave here Saturday, and will also return on Sunday with freight. This Sunday trip is made on account of the Vanderbilt being damaged by ice, and requiring repairs, the Commodore taking her place.

NORFOLK AND WASHINGTON SOUTH.

The Commerce has been put into dock for repairs to her stern, which was broken by the ice. She will be ready in a day or two.

The Commonwealth, on Tuesday, brought one hundred and twenty car-loads of freight from Alleyn's Point, making about four ordinary trains of freight cars. She left again last evening, at 6 o'clock, heavily laden, being detained two hours by the rush of goods going forward. This line was never better equipped for the freight business than at present.

FALL RIVER LINE.

This line also adopts the change from 4 to 5 o'clock P. M. for its hour of departure from New-York on and after Monday next, March 2. The Bay State left yesterday, jammed with freight, and an increased number of passengers. The Empire State leaves today at 4 o'clock. The State of Maine, which was the first boat through from New-York, was much damaged in her wheels, &c., by the ice, and is undergoing repairs at Fall River.

PROVIDENCE PROPELLERS.

The Commercial Steamboat and Propeller Company are once more under full headway with their six propellers, leaving every day at 12 o'clock from each end of the route. The names of the boats are the Osprey, Curlew, Westchester, Petrel, Pelican and Oceola, three of them being about 500 tons each, and the other three about 300 tons each. The amount of freight passing over this route is almost incredible.

HUDSON RIVER BOATS.

The Hendrik Hudson, Capt. PECK, of the People's Line, left last evening at 6 o'clock upon the first trip of the season. Information from Castleton states that the ice dam had given way, and the ice was driven on to the east shore. No serious obstruction is feared, and the Company consider their business as begun for the season. The Isaac Newton and the New World will be put on the route in a few days. The Oregon will probably go up to-night. The Francis Skiddy, of the Merchants' Line, is to go up to-night.

This is unusually early in the season for the river to open to Albany, having occurred but once—in 1851, and then on the 24th of February—for a period of eleven years. The following is a summary:

1847	March 8	1852	March 28
1848	April 7	1853	March 21
1849	March 22	1854	March 16
1850	March 19	1855	March 29
1851	Feb. 24	1856	April 10

REMARKABLE PASSAGE.

The schooner Sea Drift, Captain RICHARDS, of Plymouth, arrived here yesterday in 55 days from Plymouth, Mass., (having sailed thence Jan. 2,) with cod-fish to E. CROWELL & Co. The Sea Drift has been most of this time drifting in the ice at Holmes' Hole and other places. She was the only vessel of a large number which sailed about the same time that has not been ashore. She has suffered no other damage than the loss of jibboom. The schooner Estella, a fast sailer, arrived one day ahead of the Sea Drift.

The Bark Heroilla, of Barnstable, which sunk in the harbor of New York by the ice, a few days since, had $40,000 insured on her cargo in this City, and $10,000 on the vessel in Boston. She was 300 tons, was built in Duxbury, 1846, and was rated A. 2.

The brig Charles Williams, ashore on Brigantine Beach, has most of her cargo discharged. She lays in a good position and will, no doubt, be got off in a day or two. The schooner Carmelita, ashore at the same place there, is waiting for a lighter to take the balance of her cargo. She is full of water, but by the use of steam pumps will probably be got off.

The steamer Connecticut, of the Norwich and Worcester line, was on Wednesday evening taken on the Sectional Dock for repairs, having carried away her cut-water while breaking through the ice in the Sound, last week.

NEW STEAM REVENUE CUTTER.

The Treasury Department advertises for proposals and specifications for building a steam revenue cutter of 600 tons, with double engines and side wheels, to carry ten guns, to be of the fastest sailing qualities, and rigged as a sail vessel, and to be of sufficient strength not only for navigation, but also as a tug vessel in emergencies. Congress has appropriated $120,000 for the construction.

FOREIGN ITEMS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 9—The Adriatic, hence to New-York, which was stranded in Dungeness Bay, and sold by auction Jan. 24, has been floated off, and was towed into Queenstown yesterday. The portion of her cargo on board will be conveyed to this port as soon as possible.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 7—The casks of gin Nos. 32,632, and 33,622, washed ashore on the island of Ratin, are part of the cargo of the Ocean Home, Capt. MERRYMAN, from Rotterdam for New-York, run down and sunk Sept. 5, off the Lizard.

Pierce.

The President elect has signified his determination to receive no more visitors at Washington. On Monday morning next he will leave Wilmington for Washington, accompanied by Mr. BUCHANAN, the Vice-President elect. He will be escorted by the Legislature Committee, a list of whom has been published, being forty members. His route will be by York and Baltimore, so that Philadelphia and the Keystone Club will both get the go-by.

Mr. BUCHANAN had a serious attack on Wednesday of the complaint contracted on his recent visit to Washington. The gratuitous exertions upon receiving upwards of two hundred visitors on Monday and Tuesday brought on the relapse. On Wednesday all visitors were excluded except his intimate friends.

Sale of the Jay and Sumner Mansion.

Real Estate agents and speculators thronged the Exchange yesterday afternoon, when Mr. R. H. LOW was announced to sell twenty-six lots, which belonged to the daughters of the late Judge JAY, who died last November within nine days of each other. The property was sold under the direction of their executor, Mr. WILLIAM JAY. It consisted twenty-six different lots, situated in Broadway, Walker, Great, Centre, Bond, Great Jones and Amity streets. The whole property was sold in the lots and at bids, the bids being quickly made. The prices were deemed remarkably good, as most of the lots were encumbered with covenants and leases having 9 long time to run—some omitting the leases to expire up to 1867.

The marble front, three-story dwelling No. 38 Bond-street, 16 feet 8½ by 100 feet, was bought by Mr. A. S. HOWARD for $17,000. The same gentleman bought a lot directly in the rear, running through to Great Jones street, upon which is a frame stable, for $3,000.

The lot No. 302 Broadway, leased until May, 1866, at $800 per annum, with a covenant for renewal till May, 1871, with the proviso that the dwelling shall be painted annually, and the premises put in good order, sold to Mr. J. A. WOOD for $8,300.

Lot No. 304 Broadway, leased until May, 1866, with the privilege of renewal till 1871, sold to JOHN J. PARKER, for $30,300.

A much finer lot adjoining the above, subject to long covenants, was bought by Mr. JAMES B. HOWARD, for $44,000.

Lot No. 410 Broadway, known as the Apollo Rooms, leased until May, 1866, at $700 per annum, was knocked down to WOOD BRAYMAN for $20,250.

The whole of the property sold realized the amount of $244,350. Most of the leases with which it was incumbered were executed many years ago, at what is now considered very low rates; so, until they expire, the purchasers will not receive the interest on their investments. Still it is presumed that, by the time the leases run out, its value will be so much enhanced that yesterday's bargains will prove good ones.

The terms of sale were 10 per cent down, and 33⅓ per cent, (making one-third of the whole amount) on the 1st of April next; the remaining two-thirds to be paid on the 1st of April, or remain on bond and mortgage on the premises, at the option of the purchasers, for five years, at an interest of 7 per cent, per annum, payable half-yearly.

A Lively Time in Court between Mr. McKeon and Mr. Busteed.

The examination of the parties charged as being implicated in the heavy French railway fraud was resumed yesterday at 12 M. in the United States District Court room, before Commissioner [illegible]. Mr. MONTHOLON, the Consul-General of France at New-York, was recalled, and Mr. McKEON, after one or two opening interrogations, handed the witness a letter or document for the purpose of identification which he proposed to offer in evidence.

The Commissioner decided the paper to be inadmissible.

Mr. BUSTEED, the Corporation Counsel, but who appears as one of the counsel for the defendants in the present case, asked to look at the paper, and they were given to him.

Mr. McKEON asked some after that the paper be handed back to himself.

Mr. BUSTEED refused to give it up.

Mr. McKEON continued to persist in his claim to the document.

Mr. BUSTEED again refused to yield.

The Commissioner, when called upon, said he had no power in the matter; the parties must settle it among themselves.

Mr. [illegible] intimated that Mr. BUSTEED was a thief.

Mr. BUSTEED dared a repetition of the imputation.

To what height the matter might have been carried it is difficult to conjecture had not a timely motion of adjournment prevailed, for the purpose of referring the facts to the Judge of the U. S. District or Circuit Court for his decision.

Official Intervisters.

From the Washington Union.

We are informed that as soon as Saturday last Mr. EDWARD DE STOEKL, who for a considerable period has been Secretary of the Legation and Charge d'Affaires of his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Russia in this city, had an official interview with the President for the purpose of delivering his credentials, and was received in his new character as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of his Government to this Government. He addressed the following remarks to the President:

Mr. PRESIDENT: It has pleased the Emperor, my august master, to confer on me the honor of representing him as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary near the Government of the United States.

I am directed by the Emperor, upon the occasion of delivering my credentials, to express from his Majesty's earnest wish that the ties which happily have so happily and uninterruptedly existed between the governments and people of the two countries may continue to be cultivated and strengthened.

The important and [illegible] relations between the two countries, and the reciprocal desire for trade and commerce which is so manifest, the interest of both to cherish and promote, furnish a true, unassailed guarantee for an unbroken continuance and a stronger consolidation of these relations of amity and good-will.

As for myself, personally, Mr. President, I cannot allow this occasion to pass without the acknowledgment of my profound sense of the uniform kindness and consideration which has been manifested towards me by the Government and citizens of this country during my connection with, and while I have been in charge of, the imperial legation here; and I will not grow upon the occasion by saying, as I might truly, my stay in this country has ever been of the most agreeable character, and one which cannot be of the same kind elsewhere.

To these the President replied in substance thus:

HAVANA, Friday, Feb. 20, 1857.

DR. E. K. KANE expired at 11 o'clock A. M. on the [illegible] instant, having been intensely ill several days previous.

The following note was addressed to the Captain-General by the United States Consul, Samuel [illegible], Esq., Governor of the State Whites, Ala.:

HAVANA, Feb. 17, 1857.

SIR: Mr. Kane, the distinguished [illegible] of the United States, [illegible] the purpose of making a public manifestation of [illegible] to the memory of their fellow-citizen, the [illegible] Dr. Elisha Kent Kane, who died [illegible] in your city, will grant permission for the [illegible] to be held in your palace.

[illegible] Consul-General of the United States.

To the Captain-General, Captain-General and Superior Governor of the Royal Exchequer of H. E. P. G. of Cuba.

I have received the communication dated [illegible] in which you request permission for the holding of a public demonstration on the decease of your fellow-citizen, Dr. E. K. Kane. I have the pleasure to inform you that I may write with you in the manifestation, which may be received upon to the memory of this distinguished man of science.

[illegible] you many years.

To the Captain-General, Captain-General and Superior Governor of the Royal Exchequer of H. E. P. G. of Cuba.

I have received the communication dated [illegible] in which you request permission for the holding of a public demonstration on the decease of your fellow-citizen, Dr. E. K. Kane. The meeting took place at the Consulate of such a nature as had never before united in this Harbor for [illegible] Fairtrader, Consul, to the chair. General [illegible] stating the duties assigned, very briefly and [illegible] the name of the meeting. A Committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions, and appointed Gen. Patterson, Chairman, Hon. Henry W. Cushman, Massachusetts; James M. Battle, Esq., Alabama; G. G. Thompson, Esq., New-York; and Col. Wm. Robertson, Havana. The following resolutions were the result:

The late Dr. E. K. KANE having by disposition of divine Providence terminated his brief but eventful [illegible] in this city, and the United States consulate and [illegible] in Havana, desiring to express our grateful sense of his distinguished services to his country and mankind, do resolve:

1st—That in the death of Dr. KANE our country has lost a valuable and world-renowned citizen, who has adorned her annals—science has been deprived of an ardent advocate, our race of a benefactor, by self-abnegation, to advance its interests, and Humanity a devotee who yielded his life in obedience to her command.

2d—That while we deplore his loss as a public calamity, we tender our heartfelt condolence to his bereaved parents, brothers and distinguished relations.

3d—That these resolutions, with the letter of the Governor-Captain-General in relation to this meeting, be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and a copy of the same be made public through the press of the United States.

These resolutions were unanimously adopted. Some gentlemen then arose and proposed that should be [illegible] by the members of the meeting. This was objected to by General Fairtrader, who made a speech to the effect that no paper would publish the names, and some others of a like nature. The meeting then adjourned. I was sorry to see that none of our [illegible] were on the list of the committee, as they should have been preferred to some others, which only note of distinction has been a connection in the Mexican war. The suffering man feels naturally a greater interest in Dr. KANE's discoveries than any other class of persons. It was a great oversight. On the morning of the 19th the American Consul received the following communication from the Captain-General's Political Secretary:

HAVANA, Feb. 18, 1857.

A. K. BLITCH, Esq., Dear Sir: His Excellency the Captain-General, having been informed that Dr. Kane's body is to be embarked to the United States, his Excellency, and desiring that its transportation should be effected with the respect due to his merits, has ordered to place at your service and that of his friends, the government boats, particularly as there are no American vessels-of-war in port whose boats might perform this sad duty. His Excellency, for this purpose, wishes you to inform him beforehand of the day when the ceremony will take place, in order to give the corresponding orders to the boat, and that those of the authorities and scientific corporations of this city may accompany the remains.

God preserve you many years.

(Signed) MANUEL ACHILLE, Political Secretary.

The body will be sent to New-Orleans on the 25th instant, which is expected to arrive to-morrow. The family of the deceased will also take passage in it. A Committee of American citizens, in which the American marine will be represented, has been appointed to accompany the remains on board.

The body of Dr. E. K. KANE was this morning placed on board the American steamship Orleans with a solemnity not often witnessed in this community. Our readers are already acquainted with the distinguished merits of Dr. KANE, and the just celebrity he has achieved, not only as a man of science but by his intrepidity and enthusiasm in the most hazardous of enterprises. Medical attendant to the first expedition that the United States sent out in search of Sir JOHN FRANKLIN, he was placed in command of the second fitted out for the same purpose,—the result of which cannot be deemed unsuccessful, when we consider the scientific importance of Dr. KANE's researches and his discoveries of an open Polar sea. The illustrious discoverer was about to undertake another expedition at the request of Her Britannic Majesty's Government. But Death has cut short his brightest hopes—the hopes of a man who, at the age of 35, had already done so much for his own glory, the glory of his country and the good of humanity.

Such a man belongs to the world, and Dr. KANE should be singularly appreciated by the children of a nation which, among its glories, counts the Discoveries of the new world. His Excellency the Governor and Captain-General, worthy representative of our illustrious Spain, wished, then, to assist in the funeral honors to Dr. KANE; and among the numbers assembled this morning to follow the body, were officers of all the Civil Corporations, scientific and literary bodies, &c., the political and military Governor, the President of the Ayuntamiento, the Sanitary Military Director, an Aide-de-Camp of the Captain-General, and various members of the medical profession, of the infantry, and of the cavalry of the garrison. The body was borne by men from the house inhabited by Dr. KANE, and was followed by a very numerous cortège, preceded over by the American Consul. Many of the fellow-countrymen of the deceased were present, and different classes of our own people were also represented. The whole was preceded by a military band, to which afterwards added at the time his Excellency, the General, joined the cortège.

Upon arriving at the wharf, the body was placed in a Government boat, covered with black, with the flag at half-mast, and into this boat also entered the political and military Governor, some of the officers of the corporations, the Consul of the United States and the members of the Committee. Following in two other Government boats were the rest of those who actually took part in the ceremony. A large number of boats belonging to the American, Spanish and British commercial marine followed in the wake.

The body arrived on board the vessel, the Brigadier [illegible] as follows:

[illegible] society feels it ever to be [illegible] a tribute of respect and affection to [illegible] who, in the elevation of their [illegible] themselves for the in[illegible] of our own humanity.

[illegible] death was of their number, as [illegible] and his fervent enthusiasm for [illegible] his own country, and his love for humanity, [illegible] in a condition of acute regions, where, [illegible] great danger and hardship, he exhibited a [illegible] as it was certain, and sta[illegible] the great ob[illegible] Owing to this friend he refresh[illegible] that brings us to[illegible] Cuba would have participated [illegible] that his prolonged existence [illegible] Providence, in its high [illegible] to declare our irreparable loss. May that memory [illegible] honors, and may future generations preserve [illegible] and value it as it deserves.

HAVANA, Wednesday, Feb. 18, 1857.

The Colonel Leonard, mentioned in my last, [illegible]

[illegible] Washington City, and during this brief period has ever distinguished himself for his zeal in the prosecution of every plan calculated to benefit the Island. He proclaimed, on his last left the office with a fairer name. As a faithful chronicler of events, it gives me pleasure to bestow a passing compliment on Señor LEMUS, and I only regret that he may not soon return to his post. The celebrated Spanish Commodore, Pinzon, one of the lineal descendants of Columbus' companions, also left us by the same packet. I should be happy to be able to say as much in favor of the Chargé d'Affaires of other gentlemen, but facts will not permit me.

The Dutch flag has marked changed owners, having been bought by Señors TOSTINE, TOCA and FORTAMASO—the sons of the former. The same gentlemen have been retained as editors and printers, from which we are to infer that the politics of the paper have not undergone any reformation.

Another large cargo of Chinese arrived here last week. A grand masquerade ball was given here last night in the hall of the old Intendencia, for the benefit of the poor. The place was crowded with the élite of the Havana. New-York was represented by a large number of her belles and beaux.

Your readers and the numerous friends of Dr. KANE will regret to learn that he is dead. He departed this life at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Most of the American shipping in port displayed flags at half mast. Had the news been more generally known, all would have gladly shown this little mark of respect to one of the greatest men our country has produced. His body has been embalmed, and will be conveyed to the States.

REVOLUTION—MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED.

We have received, says the Havana Diario, our files of journals from the capital of this Republic, to the 30th of December, at which date it appears that fresh disturbances were expected. The Eco del Pueblo publishes in its issue of the 29th two very violent articles against the position taken by Ex-President General SANTANA in the district of Seibo, and the Gaceta Oficial, of San Domingo, publishes in its issue of the 30th the two following decrees, which sufficiently represent the threatening aspect of political affairs:

The Senate, in its extraordinary session of to-day: Seeing, from the representations of the Minister of Justice, deputed by His Excellency, the Executive Power, to report upon the armed movements in Neyba, and also from the examination of Government officials in the Province of Azua, that the country is in a state of insurrection; and

Inasmuch as it is the imperative duty of the Senate to devise every means for the preservation of order against attacks and machinations, of what nature soever, that threaten its overthrow; and as the only efficacious plan to adopt is to invest the Executive with complete and extraordinary powers to meet the present exigency;

That His Excellency the President of the Republic is authorized, without any restriction or responsibility whatsoever, to adopt, forthwith, such energetic measures as he may deem necessary to insure the execution of such decrees as may contribute to the preservation of public order.

(Signed,) &c.

SECOND DECREE.

Having heard the exposition of His Excellency the President of the Republic on the authority of the Ministry of Justice:

Inasmuch as by account received from the Superior Political Gefe of the Province of Azua an armed insurrection exists in the community of Neyba which it becomes necessary to suppress by prompt and energetic measures; and

Inasmuch as abettors of this crime exist in different portions of the country, and it is necessary to adopt extensive and severe measures to preserve society from insubordination and anarchy, and inasmuch as the common law and the guilliness of its forms are deficient, in urgent cases, for the suppression of crimes of high treason;

Be it Resolved:

Martial Law is in force throughout the whole territory of the Republic, and crimes and offences perpetrated after the publication hereof will be adjudged by the Military Penal Code.

Given in the Palace of the Senate-Consult on the 29th of Dec., 1856, and of the country the 13th.

President of the Senate, JUAN E. LOVELACE, CARLOS REYE, P. ALVARES, GARRIDO, A. D. MARMOLEJO, M. UREÑA.

Let the foregoing be executed, published and circulated throughout the territory of the Republic for its punctual observance.

BUENAVENTURA BÁEZ,
President of the Republic.

On reassembling the debate was re[illegible], and was not concluded when we went to [illegible] it was thought the Senate would remain in [illegible] all night. In the House, the Miscellaneous, Army, Navy, Fortification and Ocean Mail Steamer Appropriation bills were passed. The bill to in[illegible] $3,000,000, held in trust for the Indians, in [illegible] Stocks, was laid on the table. The House [illegible] after an announcement that the next [illegible] would be the consideration of the report in Mr. GUNSMER's case. A desire to push through the Appropriation bills prevented action in this matter yesterday. In the course of the proceedings a disgraceful collision occurred between Messrs. WATKINS, of Tennessee, and SHERMAN, of Ohio, which, it is thought, may result in a duel. It grew out of a previous controversy between them.

Contradictory statements are published concerning the fate of the new treaty just concluded by the American Minister with the Government of Mexico. On the one hand it is positively asserted that it embraces a cession of a large portion of Mexican territory, including Lower California, for which the United States is to pay $15,000,000. On the other hand, and for the express purpose of silencing these rumors, the Secretary of the 4th, published at Mexico, which we copied yesterday, declares that "there is not a word of truth in the report, that, by the pending arrangements with the United States, a foot of the National territory has been either ceded or even mortgaged; that the Church property is not mentioned or even concerned in either of the treaties that have been agreed upon, and there is nothing like a treaty of alliance in the negotiation." And it adds, that all that is desired by our Government, or sought by the treaty, is to strengthen the ties of friendship and good neighborhood between the two Republics, to promote their commercial intercourse, to improve the facilities of communication between them, and to perform these mutual offices of good will which belong to their geographical position and to their community of political institutions. Still more extravagant and absurd is the announcement in a late Havana paper of the arrival there of a distinguished Mexican General with "the projet of a protectorate of the United States over the Mexican Nation." Our telegraphic correspondence from Washington, this morning, denounces the whole thing as a miserable affair,—unworthy of the slightest attention, and adds that it is disapproved by the President and Cabinet, and will not be sent to the Senate for its action.

The dispute concerning the property of Trinity Church is continued with great vigor and not a little asperity. The Committee of the Senate is engaged in completing the testimony in regard to the matter, and will doubtless endeavor to regain the ground which it evidently lost by the premature and partisan report which it submitted at the opening of the session. Among the gentlemen who have appeared before the Committee is Hon. John A. DIX, one of the Vestry of Trinity Church, who submitted in writing his statement of the general condition and management of its funds. This paper will be found in another part of this morning's TIMES. It is the first authoritative and official presentation of the views of the Vestry, which has been made, and will command the greatest respect and attention from the character of the gentlemen by whom it is drawn. According to this document the revenue of Trinity Church for the last year were $61,770, while its expenditures were $120,218; and for the present year it is estimated that the deficiency will exceed $70,000. The controversy concerning the management of the property of this Corporation excites a good deal of feeling in the Church, and the address of Bishop PETTIS which we published a day or two since, has greatly increased the bitterness with which it is carried on.

The South Carolina papers publish a long and [illegible] correspondence between Mr. GIRDNER, the Editor of the South Carolinian, and Col. WALLACE one of the managers of the Lunatic Asylum, who felt aggrieved by some strictures upon the conduct of the Institution. Col. W. demanded the name of the author, which the editor refused to give and accepted a challenge, selecting rifles as the weapon. Col. WALLACE waived objection to the weapon, "although unusual," but claimed the right to name the distance at twenty paces, which was denied. A reconciliation of the challenge followed, and the whole matter was referred to a board of honor, which insisted upon withdrawals on both sides. The parties acquiesced, and so they came back to the point of beginning.

The steamship Niagara, now in her thirteenth day, had not been signaled at Halifax at 11½ o'clock last night.

A telegraphic summary of the proceedings yesterday in the Legislature will be found elsewhere. Among the bills presented in the Assembly was one for the consolidation of New-York, Brooklyn, &c., under one Municipal Government.

Canal-Auditor BARTON made a report to the Canal Board yesterday, in answer to a resolution of inquiry adopted by the Senate, strongly in favor of discriminating tolls on the canals.

The Vermont Legislature yesterday, by an informal ballot, indicated a preference for continuing the seat of Government at Montpelier.

The Rhode Island Legislature, by the casting vote of the Speaker, yesterday voted to restore capital punishment for murder.

The Geographical Society, at their meeting last night, adopted resolutions concerning the death of Dr. KANE, and paying homage to his memory. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. HAWKS, Dr. FRANCIS, Hon. CHARLES KING, Rev. Dr. THOMPSON and others. The audience was large and comprised many of our most prominent citizens. The season in which Dr. KANE was laid may be more widely but cannot be more honorably shown than on this occasion.

The Ferry Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday resumed the investigation into the affairs of the Union Company. Mr. C. KELSEY, formerly President of the old South Ferry Company, stated that never were the ferries so badly managed as now. The Union Ferry Company used to declare good dividends when their expenses were much heavier than at present, and their fare was only one cent for foot passengers. The Company now used Maryland fine coal, which generated more steam than five times the quantity of the Anthracite would, which was formerly used.

Secretary MARCY, writes in a letter received yesterday at the United States District-Attorney's office, that he can do nothing to recover, from General WALKER's army, parties who have been deluded to Nicaragua under the supposition that they were to come in possession of free farms, but instead thereof, find themselves shouldering muskets, since the United States has not at present any Minister in Nicaragua. The Secretary's letter was in response to one sent from New-York by the mother of one of the "Nicaragua New-York Agency's youthful emigrants."

Yesterday was the nineteenth day of the filibuster examination. Several witnesses testified to the drinking habits of ROBERT FULLER, one of the complainants and leading witnesses in the case. The old subject of the Mosquito grant was revived, and renewed assurances given of our intention to prove an interest in the grant upon Government officials and others in Washington. "The fourth act 's past—the jest grows stale," &c.

District-Attorney MCKEON and Corporation Counsel BURTRED had an exciting set to yesterday, relative to the possession of a paper submitted in the French railway fraud examination. Both these distinguished gentlemen have wills of their own, and both having sound vocal chords the Court-room presented an unusually interesting aspect. One of the United States District or Circuit Judges is this morning to settle the matter.

Yesterday was observed by the Protestant Churches in town, with union services, as a day of fasting and prayer for Colleges.

There was a large sale of real estate made yesterday—the property of the late sisters, Mrs. BANKER and JAY (daughters of JOHN JAY) and located on Broadway, Canal, Walker and Bond streets. Most of the lots were encumbered with long leases, so that quoting the bare prices would give no clue to their value. The amount of the sales was $444,325.

The Lemon Slave case was yesterday adjourned until the May Term of the Supreme Court.

Another frightful accident, resulting from the use of burning fluid, occurred in Brooklyn, yesterday, by which a domestic named CATHARINE DWYER, employed in the family of Mr. GILCHRIST, corner of Second and South Seventh streets, was so badly burned that her life is despaired of.

Mr. FRANK SWIFT, of Brooklyn, has been mulcted to the tune of $5,000, by a Jury in the City Court, for beating a man named STEPHEN SCAMMON in a bar-room.

Kansas Again.

We took occasion, a day or two since, to urge upon our Republican friends in Congress the importance of waiving something of theoretical right in order to secure a measure of practical justice for Kansas. Events have since spoken to the same point, and with tremendous force. The Administration must now be as anxious as the Opposition can be to see some definite term put to the reign of oppression and violence in that unhappy Territory. For the authority of the Government itself has been insulted and outraged in the person of its highest territorial officer, and the action of the usurping Legislature has brought about a difficulty of the most disgraceful and dangerous kind between that body on the one hand, and the Executive on the other. Such is the plain English of the story which reached us last night by telegraph from St. Louis.

It appears that the Legislature had recommended a person named SHERROD (styled by some of the papers Judge SHERROD) to the Governor, for appointment to the office of Sheriff. Governor GEARY declined to act upon this recommendation, for reasons which are not given, but which the subsequent conduct of the Legislative favorite renders it quite superfluous for any body to inquire into. Disappointed in his expectations of office, SHERROD avowed his purpose of killing the recusant Governor, and on meeting that gentleman casually in the street, offered him a gross and vulgar insult. A meeting of the friends of the Governor was called to resent this indignity to the laws of the land and to the person of the Executive, and at this meeting SHERROD made his appearance. An affray ensued in which, after SHERROD had killed one gentleman and wounded two others, he was himself shot down by the Private Secretary of the Governor, Mr. JONES. Further consequences were expected to ensue, and the Governor's house had been put under the protection of the United States troops.

The United States troops may be equal to the protection of Governor GEARY's house and person from the assaults of the friends and fellows of the ruffian SHERROD—but it is not, we hope, to be expected that even the administration of Mr. PIERCE will stand tamely by and leave its authority in Kansas to be defended by bayonets. Governor GEARY was appointed by Mr. PIERCE ostensibly, and even ostentatiously, with the object of restoring peace and order in Kansas. His nomination was pointed to by the friends of the Government, as a triumphant vindication of the rectitude of the President, and an unanswerable [illegible] in Kansas with true and equal laws.

It is due to Governor GEARY to say that his conduct in Kansas has at least done honor to his own singleness of purpose, good sense and determination. If the President really intended to send a high-spirited, resolute and patriotic officer into that distracted Territory, he must be entirely satisfied with the choice that he made, and must support with energy the pacificator whom he selected with discrimination.

We must confess that the course of Mr. PIERCE's Administration has not been so uniformly consistent as to inspire us with unreserved confidence at this juncture. With the fate of Mr. DALLAS and his Treaty still trembling in the balance before our eyes, we cannot say that we look upon the position of Governor GEARY as perfectly secure.

But even Mr. PIERCE and his advisers must perceive that it is comparatively much more safe to dally with the obligations they have incurred to Great Britain and to Mr. DALLAS, than to trifle with the situation of Kansas and the claims of Governor GEARY. If the Democratic party at Washington shall now bring forward at once, (as in common decency they must,) a bill so framed as mainly to ignore the past, while it provides ample security for the future of Kansas, we trust that the Republicans will give to such a bill their hearty and unanimous support, without questioning the quarter from which it comes.

Of the antecedents of the man SHERROD, whose violence and indecency have brought on this crisis, we know nothing, and can learn nothing. But it is sufficiently evident that the recommendation of this person to the shrievalty by the Legislature, and the rejection of that recommendation by the Governor, indicate the nature and the extent of the conflict which is going on in Kansas at this moment.

The Legislature, conscious that their power cannot last forever, are endeavoring to give a continued and permanent vitality to the atrocious system of which they themselves form a part, by a thorough organization of the Territory in the interest of that system. The Governor, on the other hand, is interposing his executive authority between this attempt of the Legislature and the rights of the people in the present and in the future. He is, therefore, at this time, the hope of sound order and good government in Kansas, and he must be supported. If he can hold out against the actual pressure of his antagonists until Congress shall have provided for the annihilation of the Kansas "Terrorism" at the next election, all will be well. Let the Republicans, therefore, seize the present occasion as their fairest opportunity, and let them improve it with wisdom as well as zeal. They have now a hold on the Administration from which it will be difficult even for the audacity of the Secretary-at-War or the ingenuity of the Attorney-General to devise a means of escape. If good sense, moderation, statesmanship, and, above all, an earnest resolution not to lose the golden moment, prevail now in the counsels of the friends of freedom, all may be well; and the revolver of a ruffian may have unconsciously effected the solution of a most perplexing problem, and the salvation of a State.

The Case of Richard Graves.

The Legislature of Mississippi refuses to restore to RICHARD GRAVES his lost citizenship. Poor GRAVES became a defaulter long ago, his position as Treasurer of the State affording the temptation, and his political ambition calling for more profuse expenditure than his limited salary and honest resources authorized. After years of exile under the bleak sky of Canada, suffering poverty, the loss of children, the absence of friends, and hope, and comfort; and witnessing the declining health of a wife faithful to him in his calamity and shame, he wrote a suppliant letter to the Governor, imploring leave to return. Without it, his devoted wife would perish of a too-rigorous climate; he must waste a wretched and worthless existence in banishment. With it, he offered security that the whole amount of his defalcation, with interest, should be repaid as rapidly as his laborious hands could earn it. He was willing to become a slave for life, that the woman who had so sacrificed wealth, elegance, friends and life for him, might breathe her last breath in the milder air of her home. The Governor transmitted the application to the Legislature, with his Annual Message, in which he alluded to it not unfavorably. The Legislature has rejected it.

Without any disposition to palliate official pilfering, we cannot help thinking that the punishment, upon the prolongation of which the Mississippians insist, is inordinate, and smacks of mere vindictiveness. Transportation for seven years would have been the penalty of GRAVES, had he committed a similar breach of trust in England. Transportation of the criminal and the criminal's wife and family for life, were such a sentence legal, would there be deemed unjustifiable severity. In the eyes of a Mississippi tribunal, however, the requirements of justice are more exacting. It is not enough that the victim has spent the meridian and better days of his life in friendless exile; that he is poor and penitent, and only craves opportunity to make restitution for his errors, and to reimburse the community he has defrauded; that his touching petition exhibits some of the finest and most respect-worthy traits of humanity—love, gratitude and devotion to his wife, and anxiety for his offspring, so sincere as to make him willing to return to the scene of his former elevation as a self-confessed criminal and public bond slave; Mississippian rigor calls for more than this, and appeals to the strict letter of the law. This is not the dictate of exalted justice and detestation of crime.

The Legislature of Mississippi is guilty of the same misdemeanor that has ruined GRAVES. It has broken faith with and defrauded mankind, and is even now a defaulter to the extent of millions. The story of the Mississippi bonds has blotted the American name inefaceably. No sign of shame or penitence, such as the case of GRAVES presents, has ever relieved the guilt of Mississippi. The fact stands out on the history of the country like a record of unblushing crime in the Newgate calendar. No right principle, therefore, no inspiration of lofty integrity, prompted this rejection of the Ex-Treasurer's application; else the same impeccable body would have passed an act for the restoration of the poor honor by the payment of its repudiated [illegible]

[illegible] Council be requested to make [illegible] the delivery, at some future day, of [illegible] upon the life and character of Dr. [illegible] that a copy of these resolutions, with the [illegible] signed by the President and Recording [illegible] be transmitted to the family of the deceased, and that they be published.

[illegible] Charles King, President of Columbia College, [illegible] the resolutions. The present occasion, he remarked, was indeed a sad one. Dr. KANE had already accomplished so much—he was so full of life, so filled with resolute purpose, so fearless of exposure, so determined for the general good, that it was [illegible] to expect more [illegible] than he had yet done or dared. At the close of 53, he had left a renown which the world could not willingly let die; and although it was not for us to question the Supreme wisdom, it was only right that for him who first penetrated that mysterious sea around the Pole should be reserved the proud triumph of first visiting it with his own adventurous keel. But he was otherwise ordained, and while we deplored, we bent in humble submission. Yet it was sad to think [illegible] hopefully begun should be brought so prematurely to an end. It only remained for his friends [illegible] to bind his fleet unperishable flowers upon [illegible] the dashing bay which paying the last tribute of respect to his memory, we must remark that [illegible] so young and gifted had been removed without [illegible] what he would have accomplished if his life had been spared. With Dr. KANE's name he [illegible] would associate the name of HENRY [illegible], the noble-minded man whose liberality [illegible] now had imperishable laurels to science. In the future the names of KANE and GRINNELL would be associated together.

Dr. FRANCIS, with much emotion, spoke as follows:

I am grateful for the opportunity to give utterance to my own feelings of personal regret and delightful [illegible] by concurring in the resolutions just [illegible] by the distinguished member of the Geographical Society. While I accede fully to all that has been said in commendation of our friend's moral excellence, his enthusiasm, his intrepidity, his disinterestedness, I am [illegible] while with you I deplore his untimely death. I yet rejoice in his rare and beautiful example; I am thankful for what he lived to accomplish; I cherish [illegible] as glorious to our country, to science, to [illegible]. My personal intercourse with Dr. KANE [illegible] me with a deep sense of his singular [illegible] and candor. I beheld at our last interview, a few days before his departure for Europe, with profound sorrow, the ravages of disease caused by heroic [illegible] privation, and by his severe toil in his literary labors. I have heard, from time to time, with the warmest sympathy, of the success of his "Narrative," of his vacillating strength, and yet hoped to welcome him once more at the hospitable board of Mr. CHANCELLOR, or in our midst here. Providence has ordained otherwise. He is no more; but his name is [illegible] associated with the caps and cliffs, the [illegible] and the open sea of the Arctic region; with [illegible] fore, their natural history; with the progress of [illegible] discovery; with the memory of Sir JOHN [illegible] and his noble lady; with the cause of science, humanity and truth.

The point of view in which Dr. KANE's Arctic Expedition has mainly struck me, is one growing out of my knowledge of the man, as illustrated by the record of his adventures. That record, in the manly [illegible] and unaffected candor of its details, presents an example of intelligent fortitude, Christian patience and self-devotion which acquires remarkable interest in contrast with the delicate organization of the sufferer. It is a rare and memorable example of the triumph of mind over body; it narrates wonders, natural and moral, unsurpassed in curious novelty and suggestive knowledge, from the story of Mandeville and the voyages of Cook down to the era of [illegible]; it breathes a grand lesson of [illegible] and [illegible]; it is a beautiful revelation of scientific [illegible] and [illegible] in a [illegible] instance of heroic [illegible]; and all this derives new meaning and attraction from its association with the fate of a [illegible] pioneer into the frigid and dark regions of the North Pole, with the mutual and disinterested [illegible] of the Anglo-Saxon race, with the new combination of science and philanthropy that [illegible] maritime explorations in our day. Such are a few of the salient points that give permanent and pathetic interest to his beautiful volumes. I feel confident that the Geographical Society will not be [illegible] in bestowing the proper meed of praise to the [illegible] of Dr. KANE.

Rev. Dr. TYNG, jun., of the Tabernacle, succeeded Dr. FRANCIS, in a speech highly eulogistic of Dr. KANE, and particularizing the services which he had rendered to the world. He was briefly followed by Mr. VARIAN, after whose address the resolutions were unanimously adopted and the meeting separated.

Testimonial of Respect in Baltimore.

The Board of Managers of the Maryland Institute held a special meeting Tuesday evening for the purpose of expressing their feelings at the death of Dr. KANE, who, during his life, was ever its warm and devoted friend. JOSHUA VANSANT, Esq., the President, being unavoidably absent, Mayor SWANN, one of the Vice-Presidents, was called to the chair, and Mr. H. H. THAYER appointed Secretary. The Board unanimously passed a resolution providing for the appointment of a Committee, of which Mr. SWANN is Chairman, to report to the Institute such proceedings as they may think proper. The members of the Committee are Messrs. SWANN, MEREDITH, YOUNG, [illegible] and BOZZOR. The Institute met again on Wednesday night in the Female School of Design, when the report of the Committee was presented, as follows:

Whereas, The Maryland Institute has been apprised of the death, at Havana, on the 16th inst., of Dr. ELISHA KENT KANE, an honorary member of this Institute; and

Whereas, His name has become distinguished, not only in his own country, but throughout the civilized world, for his contributions to science and useful discovery, placing him in advance of the most chivalric, skillful and enterprising of the navigators who have gone before him, in all that was calculated to reflect honor upon his country or shed a lustre upon his own name; and

Whereas, It is proper and becoming that the whole country should recognize the severity of the blow which has deprived us of one of our most illustrious citizens, and especially the Maryland Institute, whose [illegible] he was so lately to adorn, by the close and intimate [illegible] in which he has stood toward us; therefore, That the members of the Maryland Institute [illegible] with unmingled sorrow the sad intelligence of the death of Dr. ELISHA KENT KANE, and that [illegible] to the family of the deceased their most [illegible] condolence in this heavy bereavement.

[illegible] That a committee of twenty-five of the [illegible] of this Institute be appointed in behalf of [illegible] to take charge of the remains of our departed [illegible], on their arrival in Baltimore, or at [illegible] on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as [illegible] most convenient and proper, and that [illegible] be instructed to make such further arrangements [illegible] be necessary to represent the feelings of the [illegible] on occasion of so much sorrow, not only [illegible] own members, but the whole community.

[illegible] That the presiding officer of this Institute be instructed to inclose a copy of these resolutions, together with the proceedings of this meeting [illegible] family of the deceased.

[illegible] were made by Messrs. SWANN and YOUNG, and the report was unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That the great abilities and enterprise of Dr. KANE entitled him to the highest rank among scientific men and explorers, and that his many and valuable contributions to the collections of the Academy and his constant interest in it, entitle his memory to especial regard.

The Remains of Dr. Kane.

CINCINNATI, Thursday, Feb. 26.

A general meeting of the citizens was held to-night at the Merchants' Exchange, where a Committee was appointed to cooperate with the Committee of the City Council, in taking measures for the payment of respect to the remains of Dr. KANE. Musical.

THALBERG gave his [illegible] last evening to the usual large attendance, and was of course appreciated in the usual enthusiastic way. This appreciation must become a little wearisome to Mr. THALBERG, for by yielding to the importunities he has fallen into the habit of playing some pieces and to effect does twice the amount of work allotted to him in the programme. No one can complain of this except Mr. THALBERG, and unless he suggests the duty it will never be effected. The programme last night contained a dozen pieces, which were rendered efficiently by Mesdames D'ANGRI, JOHANNSEN and DAVENPORT, and Messrs. THALBERG and BURKE. The latter combined their efforts in a duet (from the "Huguenots") for violin and piano, one of Mr. THALBERG's mature works, and a masterly production. The nature of MEYSENBERG's music, however, and the exigencies arising from the combination of two instruments of unequal power, make it necessarily fragmentary. On the other hand these very defects enhance the importance of the piano part, which it is needless to say was interpreted superbly by Mr. THALBERG. Mr. BURKE will feel himself more at home in the music on another performance.

Italian Opera at Niblo's.

We are informed that Mr. W. H. PAYNE has taken this house for a season of Italian Opera under MAX MARETZEK. The season will commence immediately on the termination of the Philadelphia campaign, and the new prima donna, Miss GARGANIGA will, we presume, be first alternative.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Another performance of the "Trovatore" attracted a fine house Wednesday night—not so crowded as on former occasions, but excellent considering the Anniversary. The only feature of the performance which need be noticed, was the appearance of Mme. STRAKOSCH in the arduous role of AZUCENA. Notwithstanding the fact that this lady undertook the part at a moment's notice and without a single rehearsal, she sustained it with considerable ability, and was unquestionably an improvement on her predecessor. In the third act Mme. STRAKOSCH gave some indications of fatigue, but, except in this respect, was very acceptable. There is no reason why this lady should not be heard more often. She is an accomplished and pleasing artiste.

On Friday, Mme. DE WILHORST appears in BELLINI's opera of "Sonnambula." It is an occasion of great interest.

School and Music.

SCHOOL CONCERT AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The pupils of twenty-second Ward Schools Nos. 9, 17, and 28, gave a grand Union Concert last evening at the Academy of Music, under the direction of their music teacher, F. H. MASH. The house was crowded in every part, and the affair was a brilliant success. The choruses were very fair; and the tableaux, executed by the boys of Mr. MONTEITH's School, were loudly applauded.

The solos sung by Messrs. SCOTT, ROBINSON and BALDWIN were much admired. The Education Guards, composed of the boys of the highest class in Mr. MONTEITH's school, No. 17, performed a variety of evolutions, under the command of Capt. CHARLES WILMOT with admirable precision. The Guards were in uniform, their arms being mammoth pens. The concert closed at about 19 o'clock with "Sweet Home," sung by over two thousand voices. The number of persons present was between five and six thousand; and the proceeds are to be applied to the purchase of pianos for the use of the schools of the Twenty-second Ward. The amount of money received for tickets was over $1,100.

MR. R. A. WILLIS' LECTURE ON MUSIC.

Mr. WILLIS repeated the first of his admirable lectures on music before the pupils, their friends and the school officers of No. 50, on Twentieth-street, last evening.

The large hall was filled to overflowing, and the musical exercises, in addition to the lecture, were very interesting. Mr. ARTOMAS with his harp was never more fortunate in his execution.

Dr. GUILMETTE sung a French and two Scottish ballads, which gave a very marked idea of the difference in the style of French and Scottish music.

Mr. WILLIS sung a song, and the girls of No. 50, under the lead of Prof. GEO. H. CURTIS, sung several choruses. Mr. WILLIS will repeat the remaining two lectures of his course before the school.

CONCERT AND EXHIBITION.

A grand concert and exhibition came off last evening at MERRITT's Hall, in Spring-street, for the benefit of Zion Baptist Church, (Colored.) A portion of the pupils of Ward School No. 1, Miss CHARLOTTE SMITH's, sang several solos, duets, and choruses, under the direction of their music-teacher, Prof. H. WALDRON. The occasion was very pleasant and a success in all respects.

The Tammany Minority.

A special meeting of the Democratic General Committee was held last evening in a small back room off the bar in Tammany Hall to determine the course they should adopt in reference to their ostracism by the majority of the Sachems, WILSON SMALL, Chairman; SAMUEL T. WEBSTER, HENRY H. MORANGE, Secretaries.

RICHARD B. CONNOLLY, JOHN A. SUTHERLAND, SAML OSGOOD, THOMAS BYRNES and P. G. MALONEY, took part in the debate.

It was resolved to invite ISAAC V. FOWLER, Postmaster, and ANDREW FREMONT to appear personally before them and answer certain pertinent questions.

The lessee, Mr. HOWARD, refused to recognize this company or give them a room to meet in—abiding by the decision of the majority of Sachems. But in their corner they passed resolutions in opposition to the Sachems, and agreed to submit to no authority. They said they would still continue to meet in Tammany Hall, and should refuse to notice the new primary elections ordered to be held by the seven sachems. Their motto is "no compromise, no surrender to the Savage party"—the majority.

Eckel.

It is stated that a brother of ECKEL, the reputed murderer of Dr. BURDELL, residing at Mount Pleasant, Hunterdon County, New-Jersey, has been so affected in his mind by the late finding of the Grand Jury, that it will probably be necessary to remove him to the Lunatic Asylum.

Fires.

IN KING-STREET.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in the dwelling No. 11 King-street, owned and partly occupied by Dr. S. STORM. The building was damaged to the extent of about $800—insured for $2,700 in the Bowery Insurance Company. H. S. STORM, EDWARD CONOVER and JAMES PRESTON, also occupants of the building, sustained some damage to their furniture by fire and water.

The flames extended to and burned off the roof of the adjoining building, owned by WILLIAM WEEKS, and occupied by several families, as a residence, and on the first floor and basement as a bakery; loss on the building, about $300; the furniture and fixtures were somewhat damaged by water.

IN ALLEN-STREET.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an alarm was caused by some sparks falling from the chimney and setting fire to the roof of the house No. 95 Allen-street. Damage trifling.

VILLAS AND COTTAGES.
HARPER & BROTHERS,
No. 82 to 88 Pearl-st. (Cedar-street.)
Publish this day:

VAUX'S ARCHITECTURE: VILLAS AND COTTAGES.—A series of Designs prepared for Execution in the United States. By CALVERT VAUX, Architect, (late Downing & VAUX,) Newburg on the Hudson. Illustrated by 300 engravings, 8vo, muslin, $3.

This copiously-illustrated work has been prepared with the intention of giving a heavy practical response to the ever-increasing popular desire for improvement in American rural architecture, and it deals with the whole subject in a simple, comprehensive style, free from all professional technicalities. As it is very fully illustrated, it affords a storehouse of practical suggestions to all who are interested in the building of country houses in America; and as the architectural designs of which it is composed have been for the most part prepared in detail for actual execution, this work has the all-important advantage of being the result of home-side experience both on the part of the employers and architect. It also contains a much-needed chapter, in which the special features of interest that occur in building out of towns are touched on and drawn in detail, and a valuable amount of information on these points is thus introduced in a condensed, intelligible manner.

To avoid any confusion of ideas in examining the book, the various illustrations are so arranged that the whole scope of each design may be comprehended at a glance; and the vignettes that are appended to the subjects have afforded opportunities for treating in an artistic manner many interesting accessories that have hitherto scarcely attracted the attention they deserve.

To a great number of persons, this volume will have an additional interest, as it contains several designs that were prepared while the author was in partnership with the late A. J. Downing, whose well-known works have had such a beneficial influence on rural taste in the United States.

NEW-YORK CITY.

The Union Ferry Company's Affairs before the Aldermanic Committee.

The Aldermanic Committee on Ferries yesterday [illegible] the affairs of the Union Ferry Company. Present [illegible] of the Union Ferry Company, Messrs. C. HAV[illegible] Ferry, President of the Company, and other officers of the Company, with their counsel, Messrs. [illegible] and others. The President of the Company, Mr. [illegible] stated that he had [illegible] the Roosevelt-street Ferry for three or four years; before the consolidation everything had been done for the convenience of the public that could be, but since changing hands the Ferry had sadly deteriorated; he complained bitterly of the inconveniences to which he was subjected by the mismanagement of the Ferry; manufacturers in the vicinity, as well as himself, had for years time back given up all idea of having the Roosevelt-street Ferry, as their losses had to come the further, thereby losing full one-quarter of their time; as soon as the Union Ferry will come to some agreement of what they will do with the Ferry, property holders will buy it; for his part, rather than not have it run, he would subscribe $5,000 towards purchasing it.

Alderman MABRY, of the Sixth Ward, Brooklyn, stated that they had lately closed the Roosevelt-street Ferry on the Brooklyn side, and now run one boat only from the New-York side into the Gouverneur-street slip, so that passengers coming down were led to believe that there was no boat at all running from that ferry; this was another subterfuge of the Union Ferry Company.

Alderman STEERS here interrupted Mr. KELSEY, and requested him to be sworn, as he could tell the Committee many important things.

Mr. KELSEY was perfectly willing, but wished it understood he was speaking only in general terms. He stated in substance: That the main object of consolidation was that one commutation ticket should pass one over all the ferries; this, he it understood, would cost the Company no more, but would be a great public convenience, as it was as easy to transport over one ferry as another; the first union of the South and Fulton Ferries ran under a capital of $196,000; the Hamilton-avenue Ferry was started subsequently, without any increase of capital; they were continued till the lease expired at a fare of one cent for foot passengers; he thought 40 per cent. surplus had been divided; the Company gave general satisfaction then; the boats seldom laid in a slip for five minutes, and on the longest routes made the trips in eight minutes—the Fulton Ferry every five minutes; these were the orders of the company to their employes; this continued from 1861 to 1851. Witness instanced several occasions where he had been delayed in crossing—in one case over an hour—when there was no adequate reason for the delay; he detailed the remissness of the employes of the company, who shirked their work; the company had only one out-door superintendent to see that their business was attended to. The pilots would rather sit by the stoves in their pilot-houses than make the trips. The boats were not calculated to go through the ice; they were not sheathed with oak as were the old Brooklyn and New-York of the South Ferry Company. He entered into a detailed statement of what the several ferries cost, and animadverted on the Company for purchasing the Wall-street Ferry, when they knew it could never pay.

JOHN H. SMITH, stockholder in two large manufacturing companies in Bridge-street, testified to the general inconvenience and loss felt by all who are interested in property and manufactories in the vicinity of Roosevelt-street Ferry on account of its present mismanagement. Mr. CYRUS P. SMITH told him the Company wanted to stop the Ferry altogether, and offered to sell it to the citizens in the vicinity for $92,000, but the condition of the bridges and boats was so bad that they refused to purchase it at that price.

The Committee adjourned to Wednesday next at 2 o'clock.

Police Intelligence.

THE HOMICIDE IN THE BOWERY—ACTION OF THE CORONER.

Coroner PERRY held an inquest yesterday at the Seventeenth Ward Police-station upon the body of the boy George Johnson, who was killed on Wednesday evening by Peter Arneson, at the lager-bier cellar No. 289 Bowery. The following

John G. Anderson, of No. 187 Orchard-street, sworn: I met George Johnson at about half past seven o'clock last evening, in Mr. Wyman's cigar store in Allen-street; he asked me to go with him to Mr. Arneson's, in the Bowery; we went there and found the door locked; Arneson opened it and said we could not come in, and then shut it; George tried to open it, but could not, and then went to the window and told Arneson he wanted to speak to him; he again tried the door, and I told him to come away; he turned to come away when I heard the report of a pistol; just previous to that I saw Arneson open the door; George ran up the steps, and I helped him to the doctor's shop; persons outside assisting me; George died at the doctor's shop; I heard no threatening language used; George and myself were perfectly sober; we had often been at Arneson's before; never created any disturbance there, nor had any quarrel with Arneson; the glass door was shut when Johnson was shot; I saw Arneson raise the pistol before I heard the report.

Geo. F. Barnes, sworn—I live at No. 436 Houston-street; as I was passing No. 289 Bowery last evening I heard the report of a pistol and the breaking of glass; I saw Anderson and Johnson coming up the steps, and assisting the other; somebody said the boy was shot, and I went down to the door and went in; it was not locked; saw Arneson standing there, looking confused; I said, "You have shot the boy;" he replied, "I did;" said I, "What did you shoot him for?" his answer was that boys used to come there annoying him, and he was almost afraid of his life; I assisted Johnson to the doctor's shop; I am on friendly terms with Arneson; his saloon is a regular dancing place, where people dance and drink; there are many stories about it.

Wm. H. Mansfield, Councilman of the Forty-sixth District, Seventeenth Ward, sworn—At a quarter past seven o'clock last evening I was standing in the Bowery, when Mr. Ackman informed me that a boy was shot; I went over to the saloon, took possession, sent for an officer, and caused the prisoner, Peter Ar-

LONG ISLAND.

Shocking Accident from Burning Wadding.

A seven-year-old girl named CATHARINE RUTTER, employed in the family of Mr. GILDERSLEEVE, owner of Second and South Seventh streets, Brooklyn, was accidentally burned on Wednesday night, by burning wadding. At 10½ o'clock, after the other occupants of the house had retired, she was passing up stairs to her room, when the top of the lamp in her hand came off. The fluid took fire, caught to her clothes, and the flames enveloped her. Her limbs, face and neck were almost roasted in a short time. Mr. GILDERSLEEVE heard her cries of distress, and rendered all the assistance possible under the circumstances, but the unfortunate girl was so completely paralyzed by fear that she could not assist herself at all, or undoubtedly her injuries would have been less serious.

Drs. BEADY and DOCHARTY were called in, and considering the injuries very dangerous, advised that she be taken to the County Hospital. Yesterday, she was placed in an old rickety wagon, in a cramped position, more dead than alive, and was started for the Hospital. While passing through Bedford-avenue, the wagon broke down, and the driver learning [illegible] before the woman was again on her way to the Hospital. There is but little hope of her recovery, as the mismanagement and delay in reaching the Hospital have greatly aggravated her case, which was bad enough at the first.

Wallabout Flats.

The work of filling in the Government lands at the Wallabout, adjoining Flushing-avenue, Brooklyn, is slowly and steadily, but surely progressing. There are about 400 acres to be filled up, upon which the water comes now at high tide. The contractor is now depositing 1,500 loads per day, but expects to increase the number to 2,000 loads a day when Spring opens. When the job is completed, Marine Barracks are to be erected and other extensive buildings are in contemplation. As a sanitary measure alone, the filling in of this mud flat is of great benefit to Brooklyn.

Result of a Bar-Room Fight.

It costs something in Brooklyn for a man to strike another without cause, even in a bar-room. A resident of "the lager-bier Ward," named FRANK SWIFT, some weeks ago, entered a bar-room, and, of course, called for a drink. Imagining that some one in the room had insulted him, but not exactly knowing who it was, he dashed a glass of "Williamsburg brandy" (a villainous compound sold largely in New-York as pure Cognac) into the face of the man nearest to him. Calling for more of the same drink he then dashed glass and all into the face of another man, but not satisfied with this exploit he knocked him down with his fist and kicked him after he was down. Several parties present were sober enough to interfere and prevent a murder. The man thus brutally assaulted, whose name is STEPHEN SCAMMON, not relishing such treatment, and being withal a quiet, inoffensive man, commenced a suit against SWIFT for damages. The case came off in the City Court on Wednesday last, when an intelligent Jury mulcted SWIFT to the tune of $5,000 in damages. Good.

Thieves in Brooklyn.

CHRISTIAN HOFFMAN was arrested yesterday by assistant Capt. EAGLESTON, of the Sixth District Police, and committed to answer a charge of grand larceny in stealing a horse from Mr. JOHN HOPPE, of East New-York.

Officers are upon the track of HOFFMAN's partner in this crime.

HENRY OLLENDORF was committed yesterday, by Justice MORRHOUSE, to answer a charge of stealing harness from the stable of Mr. BOYCE, on Myrtle-avenue, near Gresham street. The accused was arrested by officer BUTLER, of the Fourth District Police.

SAMUEL JONES was arrested for stealing boots from his employer, PHILIP YOUNG, who keeps a store on Remsen-street, E. D.

House corner of Hudson-avenue and Marshall-street was robbed Tuesday night of a gold watch and chain, jewelry, and $60 in American coin, the whole valued at $250. A person has been arrested upon suspicion of being the burglar.

Two youths, named MALONE and SALTY, were arrested yesterday by officer FERRIMAN, of the Fourth District Police, and held to answer a charge of stealing chickens.

The house of Dr. WEBB, on Fourth-street, near South Fourth, was robbed of a quantity of jewelry and other articles of value, on Monday last.

House No. 63 South First-street, occupied by H. D. NORRIS, was robbed, Wednesday, of spoons, $15, and a quantity of clothing.

Kings County Hospital.

During the past week 41 patients were admitted into this institution, and there were besides two births; 58 were discharged and 2 died, viz: ANN MARDEN, a native of Ireland, aged 19, and THOMAS SMITH, American, aged 48. Total number remaining 519.

Brooklyn City Court.

An order has been issued in this Court that hereafter applications for orders to show cause, made returnable in less than eight days, must set forth a sufficient reason in the affidavit for lessening the time.

Burglaries in Brooklyn.

The great increase of burglaries in Brooklyn has aroused some of the Police, and, determined to arrest somebody, they arrested four men on Wednesday on suspicion of being thieves. There were only five or six burglaries and larcenies reported during the 24 hours ending Wednesday evening.

Child Burned to Death.

A little child of Mr. CARRIGAN, corner of Hoyt and Butler streets, Brooklyn, died on Wednesday morning from burns received the day previous by its clothes taking fire.

An Unnatural Son.

PATRICK MAHON, a sheepish scamp, was brought before Justice SMITH, in Brooklyn, yesterday, and sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment in the Penitentiary for beating his mother.

☞ Coroner SNELL yesterday held an inquest on the body of a colored woman named Mrs. ASHER, residing at No. 314 South Fourth-street, Brooklyn, found dead in her room early that morning. The verdict of the jury was death from apoplexy.

☞ One of the Brooklyn distilleries caught fire yesterday, but the fire was speedily extinguished. Water will not burn, it seems by this.

☞ A thief was caught on Wednesday in Brooklyn in the act of stealing a coat from Mayor POWELL's store, on Fulton-street, and was sent to the Penitentiary for 60 days.

NEW-JERSEY.

The Clergyman who was Said to Have Starved.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

A paragraph has appeared in your paper, credited to the Evening Post, to the effect "that an Episcopal clergyman of Jersey City had lately died of want and starvation." Were there any foundation for this statement, the comment of your correspondent, that it was "a shame and scandal upon the Diocese to which he belonged, and to the Church at large," would be justly deserved.

This slanderous imputation upon the Episcopalians of Jersey City has been widely circulated, and it is due not only to them, but to the "Church at large," that its contradiction should have equal publicity.

The clergyman in question was the Rector of Trinity Free Church, a small parish established a year or two ago; and by the books of the Treasurer it appears that the amount received by the Rector for his support during the year ending September, 1856, was nine hundred and fifty-two dollars, ($952,) which, though not a large sum, was at least sufficient to provide the "necessaries of life." In November last, it having been stated that Mr. DOUGLASS was "sick and in want," a collection for his benefit was made in one of the other churches in Jersey City, which, together with sums from other sources, and collections in his own parish up to Jan. 18, 1857, amounted to over five hundred dollars, ($500,) besides a large quantity of food and clothing. These payments can be proved by the most positive testimony, and go to show that it cannot justly be said of either the Free Church or the other churches here, that they suffered one of their clergymen to "die of starvation."

Statements have appeared in the Jersey City papers embodying the above facts, some of which are personally known to the writer of this communication, who, being unwilling that such undeserved odium should rest upon this community, hopes that nothing more will be needed to convince the public of the utter falsity of the rumor alluded to. TRUTH.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 26, 1857.

The Workhouse.

The building connected with the Hudson County Jail, which has been erected by the Chosen Freeholders, for a Workhouse, is completed. It is 100 feet long, 25 feet wide, and one story high. A 20 horse power steam-engine has been placed in the building, and the machinery and motive apparatus is being arranged for the commencement of the work. It will be a month yet before the steam-power can be used, as Passaic water, from the Jersey City Water Works, must first be introduced into the building. The Contractor is Mr. SIDNEY M. LAYTON, of Con-

THURSDAY, Feb. 26—P. M.

There was increased activity on the Stock Exchange to-day, and a very strong market at the early Board on the Western share list, with heavy transactions in New-York and Erie at yesterday's prices; mostly on contract. The stir in the Stock market for some days past has induced the employment of a considerable additional amount of money among the Brokers, and a number of demand loans being called in early in the forenoon by one or two banking establishments, there was less ease experienced for an hour or so in making up the wants of the day. The Discount houses were quiet, and the rates the same as on Wednesday. The momentary change in demand loans, however, was not without some influence at the second meeting of the Brokers, and the market for New-York and Erie, New-York Central, and one or two of the Western stocks fell off ¼@½ ⅌ cent., closing rather heavy. There was a further rise of 2 ⅌ cent. on Milwaukee and Mississippi shares, closing 69 ⅌ cent., and the same on La Crosse, which was done at 75¼@75. Illinois Central Bonds were 1 ⅌ cent. better. State Stocks steady, with a larger offering of Missouris.

The following is to-day's business at the Office of the Assistant-Treasurer of the United States: Total receipts, $172,135; payments, $94,522; balance, $15,414,816.

We are assured that some injustice is done [illegible] offensive remark about the trade at New-Orleans. We now understand the writer to have remarked, in the original, that the members of Congress who entered into the estimate were either planters themselves or could easily have been prevailed upon for such a small favor as lending their names to it; and not, as our translation had it, by a small quantity, &c. In the other instance, the reference to New-Orleans trade is, in the original, preceded by the acknowledgment that there are "many respectable houses who by their own knowledge and reliable and severe classification of Cotton, (or that of their efficient brokers,) are a high honor to the place," &c.

The following telegraphic dispatch to the Associated Press puts a new phase on the recent treaty with Mexico, the text of which has just been received at Washington. The novel question of lending money to a sister Government is here proposed for the first time, as a peace-measure in the theory of our Republican Constitution. The exact nature of the consideration and the motives for the step have yet to be fully developed.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Feb. 26.

The following is said to be a correct version of the new Mexican treaty. It contemplates a loan of $15,000,000, of which $8,000,000 are to be applied to the payment of American claims which are to be adjusted by a joint commission.

The remainder of the loan is unrestricted. Twenty per cent. of the Mexican customs receipts is to be appropriated for its payment. The treaty also contemplates a joint postal arrangement and Tehuantepec, as well as the transit of that route. There is no stipulation for the cession of any territory. Neither Congress nor the President has authority to contract a loan.

Annexed is a copy of the new coinage bill as it passed Congress:

AN ACT relating to foreign coins and the coinage of cents at the mint of the United States:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the pieces commonly known as the quarter, eighth and sixteenth of the Spanish pillar dollar, and of the Mexican dollar, shall be receivable at the Treasury of the United States, and its several offices, and at the several post-offices and land-offices, at the rates of valuation following, that is to say, the fourth of a dollar, or piece of two reals, at twenty cents; the eighth of a dollar, or piece of one real, at ten cents, and the sixteenth of a dollar, or half real, at five cents.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said coins, when so received, shall not again be paid out or put in circulation, but shall be recoined at the mint. And it shall be the duty of the director of the mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to prescribe such regulations as may be necessary and proper to secure their transmission to the mint for recoinage, and the return or distribution of the proceeds thereof, when deemed expedient, and to prescribe such forms of accounts as may be appropriate and applicable to the circumstances; Provided, That the expenses incident to such transmission or distribution, and of recoinage, shall be charged against the account of silver profit and loss, and the net profits, if any, shall be paid, from time to time, into the Treasury of the United States.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That all former acts authorizing the currency of foreign gold or silver coins, and declaring the same a legal tender in payment for debts, are hereby repealed; but it shall be the duty of the director of the mint to cause assays to be made, from time to time, of such foreign coins as may be known to our commerce, to determine their average weight, fineness, and value, and to embrace in his annual report a statement of the results thereof.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, the standard weight of the cent coined at the mint shall be seventy-two grains, or three twentieths of an ounce troy, with no greater deviation than four grains in each piece; and said cent shall be composed of eighty-eight per centum of copper and twelve per centum of nickel, of such shape and device as may be fixed by the director of the mint, with the approbation of the Secretary of the Treasury; and the coinage of the half cent shall cease.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the treasurer of the mint, under the instruction of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall, from time to time, purchase from the bullion fund of the mint the materials necessary for the coinage of such cent piece, and transfer the same to the proper operative officers of the mint to be manufactured and returned in coin. And the laws in force relating to the mint and the coinage of the precious metals, and in regard to the sale and distribution of the copper coins, shall, so far as applicable, be extended to the coinage herein provided for: Provided, That the net profits of said coinage, ascertained in like manner as is prescribed in the second section of this act, shall be transferred to the Treasury of the United States.
